About Me

My name is Gabriel Urquiso and have a year and a half left of seminary before being ordained a priest for the Diocese of Pueblo. I was born in California, but grew up in Mexico until the age of eight years old. We then moved to Montrose, CO where I finished school and became the first member in my family to graduate. I went straight to work after high school and at the age of 24 had a spiritual awakening at Spanish retreat at St. Mary's Catholic parish. With the help of a Spanish group called Maranatha I kept growing spiritually. After four years I discerned the priesthood and have been at Assumption Seminary since the age of 28.
